GO-TO-CHURCH SUNDAY TO BE MADE A GENERAL OBSERVANCE

All Denominations in Charleroi to Participate in Affair November 28

FIRST TIME TRIED HERE

Enthusiasm to Characterize Observance—Every Person in Charleroi To be Asked to Attend the Church Of Their Preference.

One of the biggest movements in religious circles in years here, and one in which all denominations will engage will be that of the celebration for the first time in Charleroi's history of a "go-to-church Sunday" November 28. On that date an effort will be made to get every person to attend the church of their preference.

No special program of observance has been worked out yet in any of the churches. Each church will follow its own order of service, though the movement will be a united movement.

The "go-to-church" movement is one that has been tried in numerous other towns and cities with splendid success. Pittsburgh is working up interest in a similar observance now.

General advertising will be started in a few days by local committees. The plan is one formulated first by members of the Charleroi Ministerial association and, being in line with the ideas of other churches was generally adopted for a noteworthy campaign. In each church an effort will be made not only to have the sermons on live topics of everyday general interest but to make the musical feature strong.

POPULAR ATTRACTION AT THE RINK TONIGHT

A popular attraction is scheduled for the skating rink tonight, when Swats Adamson of Brownsville and Red Robinson of Pittsburgh will meet in what promises to be a hot battle. Both these lads are fighters of ability. Billy Wimler and K. O. Brennan will fight the semi-final bout. Like the main go, this will be a good attraction. The first on the evening's program will be a battle between Mickey Visgos and Earl Regan. The second bout will be fought by Young Jones and Johnny Cooper.

Musical Auxiliary to Meet. The Musical Auxiliary is to hold its fortnightly meeting tonight at the piano rooms of A. G. Lewis. A good program has been prepared for rendition. The hostesses will be Misses Mary Glunt and Ruth Clerihue.

Make your Christmas selections now, we will keep them for you. H. Porter, jeweler, 502 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi.

John G. Staudenmayer, manufacturer of fine ice cream and proprietor of the Quality bake shop of Monessen will offer his business and property for sale at a bargain to a quick buyer. Reason—going to engage in a different business. 126-11

SEVENTH STREET WORK COMPLETED

Sloping Condition Remedied By Borough Under Supervision of John O'Neil

PRESENTS EVEN APPEARANCE

Seventh street has been "done over" until now it is in good condition for travel from Lincoln avenue to Crest. Seventh is a street which did not prove satisfactory, owing to a slope in the grade from the upper or south side to the lower side. John O'Neil was in charge of the improvement, the borough doing the work. About half the paving was raised, and the lower part of the street elevated considerably. This necessitated alteration of the curbing, some of which was elevated and some of which was lowered.

Seventh street now presents a much more even appearance than it did and the danger to vehicles complained of as a result of the sloping condition will not now be noticed.

BEER AGENT HEARD; MURDER TRIALS UP

Important Cases Listed—Auria, Kolbos, Fleming and Sheriue All Charged With Homicide—Belski's Sentence Deferred

John Belski, a beer agent, operating in the Burgettstown section was convicted Saturday of a violation of the liquor laws. Sentence was suspended until Monday week and the defendant's bail was renewed until that time. Belski represented Joe Weiser, a wholesale liquor dealer of East Liverpool, O., whose agents have been active in the northwestern part of the county. The commonwealth's case against Belski was very conclusive that it was simply another agent case, many of which have been before the court. At the conclusion of the commonwealth's testimony counsel for Belski, it is understood, advised him to enter a plea of guilty. Belski, however, insisted on putting in his defense. The jury was not long in reaching an agreement. The testimony showed that thousands of barrels of booze were consigned to Belski at Burgettstown, two or three big car loads a week. Even this week car loads of the stuff came to that station for Belski.

With the conclusion of this case and the robbery case heard before Judge Irwin, criminal court was adjourned until Monday at 1 o'clock.

Josiah Auria will be placed on trial today for the murder of Frank Raguso. The killing of Raguso occurred near the Houston station of the P. R. R. Co., on the night of April 14 last. Raguso was stabbed to death following an alleged quarrel with Auria, just outside the home of Lugretta Allenda, where the two men had been.

The homicide case of Fred Kolbos, for the murder of M. Cohen, at Marianna, is set for Tuesday. Costa Markovich, indicted for the murder of Milan Marnuich is set for Wednesday. On Thursday Riley Fleming, the Washington tailor, indicted for killing his wife, will be put on trial. Mark Sheriue for the murder of Miro Friliska at Hills station, will be tried Thursday.

The case of the commonwealth against Benjamin Godfrey and Manuel Campbell of Catsburg indicted for robbery was given to the jury shortly before noon Saturday but no agreement had been reached when court adjourned until today. The defendants are alleged to have beaten up and robbed Peter Beken. The three men had all been drinking at a speakeasy at Catsburg and later one of the men and Beken had visited a house of ill repute. Sometime after they left the house where the drinking had been done Beken was badly hurt and alleged he was relieved of $12. The defendants denied their guilt and said Beken was injured when he fell down a pair of stairs. Too much booze caused all the trouble.

CHARLEROI HIGH WINS GAME AT VANDERGRIFT

Substantial Victory Comes to Local High School Footballists—Miksch Captains Team, Lowstuter Being Out From Injured Shoulder.

(By Edwin Booth)

Charleroi high school's football team journeyed 80 miles from home Saturday afternoon and returned with the bacon. The official count was: Charleroi high 19, Vandergrift High 7.

The Vandergrift rooters received a sudden jolt early in the game when Stahlman got his hands on a Vandergrift forward pass and ran 40 yards for the first score. Acting Captain Miksch kicked goal. Score 7 to 0.

After the ball was again in play Pierson, the 125 pound fullback in this particular game skirted left end for 70 yards and over the line. But the umpire called the referee's attention to a cleat mark on the wrong side of the side-line and "Tiny" was called back to the 41-yard line. The half ended with a run by Bortz. He was brought down in a clean hard tackle by Pierson on the five-yard line. Score 7 to 0.

In the third quarter Vandergrift played real football and by making five first downs in succession, managed to score. "Butch" Lowstuter went Motorman Burley Stops Car Suddenly When He Discovers Body at Allenport—Car Pushes Reilly Distance of Several Feet.

Severely injured, but living, Michael Reilly, of Allenport is in the Charleroi Monessen hospital a victim of a street car accident Saturday night that came as near ending his life as anything could. It was only by the merest chance that he wasn't killed.

At about 11 o'clock Saturday night Pittsburgh-Charleroi car No. 3608, with Ernest Burley as motorman was approaching a bend in the road at Allenport when Motorman Burley noticed directly in front of him a few feet the body of a man lying on the tracks. He shot the current into the reverse, but the heavy car refused to stop until apparently it had passed over the body.

Expecting to find the mangled remains of a man under the car the motorman and conductor hastily investigated. They discovered the body which was that of Reilly, had been pushed a distance of about 15 feet and that he was not fatally injured. A slight skull fracture and badly lacerated arm were his worst hurts. He was removed to the local hospital where he is getting along well.

CHURCH ADVERTISING.

That churches need to advertise and that the columns of the newspaper is the best agency for publicity is the decision of one of the principal churches of Pittsburgh which is planning to carry on an extensive advertising campaign this winter, says the Friday Evening Call.

One of the principal features in the campaigns of Rev. William A. Sunday is the attention paid to advertising. He also advises the churches which he leaves behind rejuvenated by his work to make liberal appropriation for advertising in their yearly budget.

Of course churches will reap benefits from advertising. Not that display type and newspaper space will take the place of the Gospel and good preaching. Advertising as it is practiced by many of the large progressive churches of the cities is not intended to lessen the importance of the service and the sermon. But it does supply a means of letting the world know that the church stands with open doors to receive all who will come, and it impresses this invitation by large type and much reiteration until finally the reader is convinced that the church has something worth having; or it may be that curiosity is aroused. Whatever the impelling force, it has been proven many times that advertising increases church attendance, and whether the underlying force is conviction, curiosity or social impulse matters little. The principal fact is that advertising brings men and women within range of the Gospel, and the rest of the problem is up to the preacher and his workers.

The church by advertising shows that it is earnest, just as the merchant proves that he is earnest by the extent of his advertising.

And earnestness is what the world is looking for in a store, a church or an individual. Every church should advertise systematically, judiciously, and we believe the time is not far distant when religious bodies will waken up to the real value of modern means of publicity and establish an advertising appropriation along with that of its preacher's salary, its expenses for light and heat, its janitor's pay and other departments.

The annual report of the treasurer of the Charleoi Monessen hospital ought to win careful study. Here is an institution that is of the utmost importance to the community and finally dependant upon the community for its support, for upon the support given locally depends the support that it is given by the state. The expenses run high, say in round figures, $9,000 or $10,000 a year. This is considerably more than the income ordinarily would be, for rarely does a hospital have the means at hand of obtaining a definite income as that possessed by a business man or corporation. The public must support it, if it is to exist. It has been pretty well established how necessary a hospital is here, so what we have to do is to see that it stays.

Every month in every year has a period of weather that is unusual, and each month customarily closes with some sort of record to its credit. This November is no exception to the general rule. The weather has been exceedingly balmy up until the present, with an absence of the characteristic chilliness of atmosphere that last November introduced. One year ago this week a record breaking snow storm occurred. This year won a record in a highly enjoyable summery style of first November. But such changes and new records are to be expected in the temperate zone, and we wouldn't know how to get along without them.

It will be unfortunate if a part of that new Finleyville-Monongahela road has to be condemned. But if it is condemned probably engineers will remember the object lesson that it doesn't pay to build a highway generally after the pattern of a snake's path.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In the December issue of the Woman's Home Companion two writers show the curious contrast of viewpoint on marriage held by modern young men and women. Several young men were asked why they avoided matrimony and one whose engagement had been broken made the following comment on the up-to-date girl:

"I want just a common garden variety of wife, like my father married. There can't betwo business careers under one roof. I'm willing to work like two, if she'll drop hers. And let me tell you, when I'm the head of an automobile concern, I'll issue a ukase—no girls employed in any branch of the plant. That's what I think of matrimony for the business girl. Business warps her view on the home, the husband and babies. She thinks she wants all three of them and she does; but her salary, her financial independence, the habit of earning have a stronger hold on her. My stars, what a bunch of tight-wads and tyrants our male ancestors must have been!"

In striking contrast to this view is that of the young heroine of "The Rising Tide."

"Shall I make the soap, or knit Mortimore's stockings? Or do you want me to wait on the table and put Flora out of a job? No; where people have any money at all, 'home duties' as far as girls are concerned are played out. Machinery is the cuckoo that has pushed women out of the nest of domesticity. That's not original with me," she added, honestly, "but it's true. I haven't anything to do at home, so I've got to do something outside!"

Some time ago an elderly lady heard that a friend that lived in a distant city was very ill and decided that it was her duty to go and see her. The next day she made the trip and was met at the door by the invalid.

"Well, Mary," greeted the visitor, entering the house and removing her wraps. "How are your getting along?"

"Very well, indeed, Martha," answered the other. "In fact I am nearly well now."

"Nearly well?" exclaimed the caller in a disappointed voice. "And after me coming all this long way to see you, too!"

Electric Sparks

An exchange advises people to keep an eye on the tariff. Yes, one eye on the tariff and the other eye on the manipulators of the thing.

Do your Christmas shopping early and after that start preparations for next Fourth of July, which if we remember correctly is about the beginning of vacation time.

Some people seem greatly troubled with fear that under this new state child labor law compelling children to attend school no great men will be produced.

The chief objection to the word jitters from an income point of view is that it means only five cents.

Melodrama. I love them there explosions that make the women scream.

Them sawmills and pile-drivers is sure a perfect scream.

Them pasteboard trains a-scootin' across the stage is great.

You hold your breath a-fearin' the hero will be late.

But no, by heck, he gets there upon his trusty steed,

And grabs his sweetheart to him, right in the time of need.

For real, bang-up 'show actin' that goes with dash and slam.

There's nothing that can equal the good old melodram.

The Wise Fool.
"All the world loves a lover," quoted the sage.

"Yes," agreed the fool. "The world likes to be amused."

Strange.
You long to make her your own dove,
And quietly she deceives it.
But when she wants to keep your love
Why is it she returns it?

Easy.
"How do you feel when a fountain pen needs filling?" asked the old fogey.
"Why, that's easy," replied the groom. "If it isn't leaking, you know it is empty."

More Man.
Observe the stars there in the skies—
Aye, cast your gaze afar—
And I'll be just a twinkling
What little funts you are

Huh!
"An ocean voyage gives a man a fine outing," remarked Jones.
"Well, it usually acts that way on the inner man," replied Smith.

Our Daily Special.
Every day is a bad day to be poor.

Luke McLuke Says:
What has become of the old fashioned woman who had to stop and count up when you asked her how many children she had?

It doesn't matter how rich or how poor a man may be. Let him talk for awhile and he will inform you that he is getting all the worst of it.
The fellow who will talk learnedly all afternoon on the question of whether the United States is really a creditor nation is often the same lad who will cough you for two bits before he leaves you.

The members of the Bar Rail Polishers' union are all strong for war. But if war was declared you couldn't get twenty of the 200,000,000 to enlist.

Our idea of a pretty girl is one who can look just like her photograph.
If a man will work hard at it and spend ten years training his wife he can usually make her do anything she wants to do.

Once upon a time there was a milkman who could deliver a bottle of milk at 2 a. m. and not make a noise like a herd of wounded elephants fighting in a china store. But he died. He was too perfect for this world.

Why is it that when our candidate delivers a convincing argument his opponent always comes back with a line of cheap bog wash that wouldn't convince a five-year-old child?

And what has become of the old fashioned orator who had to "look down the long thin vista of the years" every time he spoke?

Maybe if work wore silk stockings and fluffy lingerie more men would be in love with it.

GREATEST NEGRO LEADER OF AGE DIES ON SUNDAY

Probably the best known colored man of any age, Booker T. Washington died Sunday at his home in Tuskegee, Alabama. Bright's disease and arterio sclerosis caused his death.

On October 25 Mr. Washington addressed the National Council of Congregational churches of the United States at New Haven, Conn. Two weeks ago he was in New York on business when stricken. He was removed to the Rockefeller Institute hospital for examination and later to St. Luke's hospital. Nothing could be found to relieve. He left New York for Tuskegee last Friday.

Mr. Washington, founder of Tuskegee institute, was born a slave, near Hale's Ford, Va., in 1858. He was educated at the Hampton Industrial institute at Hampton, Va., and the Wayland seminary, Washington, D. C. He became an instructor at Hampton institute and later a teacher in the public schools of West Virginia.

Practical education of the negro was Mr. Washington's life work. In 1881 he founded Tuskegee institute at Tuskegee, Ala. There hundreds of negroes have been educated and turned into useful citizens.

Mr. Washington earned a great deal of money from his lectures and writings. Practically every dollar was devoted to the work at Tuskegee. He was married three times. His first two wives died. He is survived by the third and two sons and a daughter.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN

"I am 77 years old and for 35 years have worked on the P. C. & St. L. R. R. Also a Civil War Veteran. I suffered from a general nervous breakdown and would have such weak, dizzy spells I would have to go to bed for a day at a time. When visiting friends in Bradford, Ohio, an old doctor recommended that I try Vinol. That very day I bought a bottle and continued to take it regularly. It has done me a world of good, built me up so I feel stronger in every way and have gone back to work again and I want to recommend Vinol to any old comrade or aged person who needs strength for it is a grand medicine." W. H. Bowyer, Steubenville, Ohio.

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength with renewed vigor, viz.: the medicinal elements of fresh cod livers, without oil, peptonate of iron, beef peptonate and a mild tonic wine.

We ask every aged person in Charleoi to try Vinol on our offer to return their money, if it fails to create strength. Piper's Pharmacy, Charleoi, Pa.

APEX OF WASHINGTON SHAFT

Few People Know Purpose of Parallel Iron Bands That Bind Brow of Monument.

Few persons who have seen the Washington monument, even those who have lived within sight of it all their lives, have noticed that the apex of the monument is surrounded with parallel bands. Such is the fact, however, and moreover, the bands are studded with golden points. The bands are made of gold-plated iron a foot wide and the points are spaced a foot from one another.

For a few moments in each sunny day of the first week of the new year the golden fillet that binds the brow of the Washington monument is visible to human eyes. Then the angle of incidence of the sun's rays is such that they are reflected downward to the windows of the buildings north and west of the monument, and the cool, gray surface is seen to be marked with eleven shining lines of gold.

Theoretically, a similar effect could be obtained from some point of observation at each moment when the sun's rays are intercepted by the sloping top of the monument, but only an airship could attain the necessary vantage point.

According to the original plan of the monument, it was protected from lightning by an aluminum tip that was connected with the metal framework of the elevator. During the very first summer after the monument was completed, however, it was struck twice and a piece of stone was clipped from the top.

Experts from the scientific departments of the government were called on to contrive a plan for the better protection of the shaft, and they decided that copper bands, studded with projecting points, would accomplish the purpose. Colonel Casey, who had charge of the work, objected on the ground that copper would turn green and that the verdigris would "run" and spoil the appearance of the monument; he also doubted that the copper would have the necessary tensile strength.

So the men of science agreed on a number of iron bands, heavily galvanized and gold-plated to prevent rusting. The bands are connected with the aluminum point of the monument and the framework of the elevator, and at the base iron cables lead the electricity into a deep well, where it harmlessly expends its force. The protection has proved to be perfect.—Youth's Companion.

Fox Farms Fail.

Many failures in the new industry of fox farming in Alaska are recorded by E. Lester Jones, deputy commissioner of fisheries, in the report on his recent investigation in Alaska for the department of commerce. He finds that the promise of big profits caused many to rush into the business, and small fortunes were sunk by men who did not understand the difficulties of the industry.

The rush to raise foxes, the commissioner says, was due to the exorbitant prices paid for live black and silver-gray foxes raised in Canada. These prices, he declares, did not indicate a healthy condition in the industry. Nevertheless there was a rush to raise foxes in Alaska in the hope of reaping big profits quickly. One of the chief reasons for the large majority of failures, according to the commissioner, was the government's system of leasing certain islands to prospective fox farmers at a minimum of $200 a year for five years. The figure proved too high.

NATIVE LIFE IN NEW GUINEA

Magic, Marrying and Murder Seem Closely Connected Practices Among the Innocent Aborigines.

The expedition led last year up the Fly river in British New Guinea by Sir Robert Clarke resulted in the discovery of some amusing customs, for the members of the party fell in with many who had never seen a white man before.

These natives practice magic which they call kuri-kuri—which kills men by suggestion. "No man among them," says Sir Robert, "is supposed to die naturally. The magic man tells him he is going to die, and he promptly does die. It may not be all hypnotism. Supposing a man is told that he is to die from a snake bite, it is not difficult to make certain of his death."

When a man is dead his relatives must get a head so that his spirit will rest in peace. They go out on a murdering expedition and get their head from the nearest tribe they can surprise. It doesn't matter to them whether the head is that of a man, woman or child.

"The girls will not marry a man unless he has a certain number of heads and has killed a man in personal combat. When a new house is built there must be more killing, because the posts of the house have to be sprinkled with human blood. The hideous warfare never ceases, for a tribe which has been attacked must seek revenge."

"The continual fear of surprise attacks is shown in the character of the houses. These were built in the trees. They were rested on scaffold poles fifty to sixty feet from the ground, were beautifully thatched and were chiefly constructed of palm leaves. They were looped in the sides for arrows and holes had been left in the floor through which stones could be dropped on the heads of an enemy."

"Large quantities of stones are kept in the houses. These tree dwellers also wear a kind of bamboo cuirass, which is arrow-proof and would be shot-proof. The arrows used are about five feet long and are projected from very powerful bows. I don't think a white man could draw their bows. I have known a man to be pierced through by an arrow from a distance of 200 yards."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Change Produced by War.

To an unprecedented extent, the purchasing power of the British Isles has passed into the hands of women because of the war. Wives of men who have enlisted are receiving all, or a great part, of their husbands' pay, as well as the allowances made in many cases by their employers. The latter amounts to about one-half of their regular pay. With these funds the women are better supplied with money, to spend in such manner as they see fit, than they ever have been before. One result, landlords say, is that they are receiving their rents more regularly. Another result, no doubt, is that the money is being spent in a different way than it was when the men chiefly or wholly directed its expenditure.

Sausage Bundles.

Roll out plain paste in six-inch squares, rather thin. Cut frankfurts in thin slices, rejecting the skin, and lay the slices in two rows in the center of the piece of paste; double, pinch ends together and fold as you would do up a bundle, wetting the edges to make them stick; then set away on ice until ready to bake. Bake in hot oven 15 minutes and serve hot with French or German mustard.

HOLY FLAG OF MOHAMMEDANS

Unfurling of "Sacred Banner" May Have Dire Effect Upon the Nations of the World.

In the innermost precincts of the old seraglio at Stamboul (Constantinople) the flag of the prophet is kept in safety. Only on proclamation of a holy war is it unfurled to the eyes of a reverential multitude of believers, though without being removed. Its staff is closely set with golden nails and covered with green velvet. The flag of green silk is richly embroidered in gold with mystic scrolls and texts from the Koran. According to tradition the silk material originally served as curtain to the tent of Aisha, Mohammed's favorite wife. Thence it was treasured by the Ommajades in Bagdad, and brought to Cairo by the Abbassides.

In the year 1517, when Sultan Selim I conquered Egypt, he transferred it to Damascus, where the throngs of pious pilgrims on their way to the sacred shrine could do it homage. Murad III, invading Hungary, carried it in the midst of his army to inspire courage. The mosque of the seraglio became its depository in 1595, in charge of Sheikh ul Islam, the religious head of Mohammedanism.

It was last unfurled in 1926, when Sultan Mahmud planned the destruction of the Janissaries. Neither the Russo-Turkish nor the Balkan wars of recent years gave cause sufficient to the Moslem church elders to assume the responsibility of proclaiming a "holy war." Its unfurling arouses the fanaticism of all believers to frenzy. Every Moslem then must fight—fight a outrage.

Young or old, well or ill, rich or poor, married or single, busy or idle, you must obey the call. You must leave home, children, wife; all social relations are set at naught, all obligations ignored; you must follow where you are led, go where you sent, do what you are ordered. No other consideration holds. It means a life-and-death struggle engaged in by nearly 200,000,000 men throughout Asia, Africa, even in Europe.

WHEN THE RANGE IS FOUND

Correspondent Writes of the Effect of Shell Fire on the Ranks of the Enemy.

Crash! a roar from out of the rumble, a puff of white smoke and a rain of lead on the very men I had been watching! The Germans had found the range exactly, but the distance was too great for me to distinguish what execution they were doing among those stirred ranks. Then came a long siren whistle screeching through the air from the distance. Again a twinkling flash against the blue, again a puff of rich, fleecy smoke, and another shell had scattered death on the men helplessly waiting below.

Fascinated, we watched those little twinklings of flame and puffs of white smoke. Whence came they, we wondered, and by what weird skill were they made to burst squarely over their intended prey? Was it the science of man or was it, as we half believed, the cajolery of some demon gloating over the helplessness of his victims? Again the azure was broken by a little white puff—again we wondered—whence?

Click—click—click—click—the murderous machine gun was starting its music. What an engine of destruction! Nothing in the world seems so heinous as the snapping, clacking rattle of the machine guns spitting forth its rain of bullets.—Arthur Sweetser, in the World's War.

Hunting on Lower Colorado.

To the hunter of game, both large and small, the Colorado will appear most notable as being the gateway to what is undoubtedly the best easily reached shooting ground in North America, the delta country about the head of the Gulf of California in Mexico. Here, besides a wealth of bird life that is equaled by few regions in the world, are to be found wild pig or javelin, deer, mountain lion, jaguar, wildcat, coyote, antelope and mountain sheep. The delta country, with its hunting, is generally the objective of the Colorado voyager in any case, and for one whose time is limited the most expeditious plan will be to outfit at Yuma and float down the river to the end of the gulf from that point. With plenty of time at one's disposal, it will be worth while to make the needles the point of embarkation, as the stretch between there and Yuma offers a rare combination of fine scenery with safe going that is equaled by few streams in America.—Outing.

Soldiers' Winter Clothing.

The soldiers of Japan have learned the value of paper clothing for winter wear. The paper which is made from mulberry bark, has little sizing in it and is soft and warm. Between two sheets of the paper they place a thin layer of silk wadding, and then quilt the whole. It is something of a drawback that clothing so made is not washable, but in a winter campaign a soldier has other things to think of than the dirt on his uniform.—Youth's Companion.

Good Rule to Follow.

Judge Gary of the Steel corporation said to a Pittsburgh audience: "A young man should be thoroughly honest, frank and sincere. When he says anything he should tell the truth." Also, it will not hurt the young man to keep on doing these things after he gets older, when he may be surprised to find less competition.

IN PRAISE OF THE LOAFER

Master of Inactivity Usually Invites Confidence and the Friendship of His Fellows.

As a profession, of course, loafing is not to be thought of, for the loafer then becomes an object of contempt and there is something wrong with the man who courts contempt. But loafing as an avocation is another thing; and the successful loafer in that sense is a person of parts, a source of wonder and an example for beginners. Loafing should not be confused with apathetic inactivity. Your true loafer is honest with himself and the world, loafing deliberately and openly never apologizing for his aversion to labor; and his thoughts never descend below devising new schemes for pleasant loafing. The loafer who merely sits inert is a loiterer and will bear watching, but the loafer who is alive to what is going on about him and takes a healthy interest in life and affairs seldom arouses distrust or suspicion.

On the contrary, he usually invites confidence and the friendship of those less abundantly gifted. The social qualities are his particular hobby. He applies himself to the business of being useful to those who do not naturally claim attention; he cultivates a pleasant view of life which makes his smile sincere and his handclasp cheering.

Above all, he never exceeds the limitations of his natural endowments. If he is not possessed of an inherent nimbleness of wit he contents himself with making the most of his heavy wit. Affectation he dislikes, but he is never guilty, except by example, of condemning it in others.

OZONE JAG IS THE LATEST

Bracing Air of the Mountains Is Now Carried Into Stuffy Offices and Factories.

An ozone jag! One of the newest things, I assure you, and right on the heels of the departing jag that came by way of a morning bracer or an evening cocktail.

The ozone jag is meant to carry the air of a mountain top to your stuffy office or your still stuffer factory and workroom. Instead of having to sneak out when nobody is watching, to get your accustomed eye-opener over the bar, this ozone stimulant is handed around gratis by the boss himself.

Wherever introduced, everybody, from the office boy and typewriter to the head of the establishment, indulges in this new air beverage, which is warranted to make the palest cheek glow like a Gloucester fisherman's and create an appetite that will carry distress to the heart of the stoutest boarding-house mistress.

The ozone is turned loose where all may breathe it. "What is the actual effect?" I inquired of a Philadelphia manufacturer who has really witnessed the results of wholesale ozone jags. "Makes all hands work faster and yet grow fat," was the reply.

The latter result will make it unpopular in spots, but ought to encourage its sale to persons of the Connie Mack type. Factories in this town are really trying this plan to introduce more ozone by artificial means. Physicians tell me that even in large quantities it will do no harm, but will make the blood tingle as if a mild alcoholic stimulant had been administered.—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Got the Apples.

"Once upon a time," began the teacher, "two little brothers started to Sunday school on Sunday morning. Their way led past a fine orchard, where the trees were bending down with ripe, luscious apples. One of the brothers proposed going into the orchard and getting some fruit, but the other refused and sped away, leaving his companion greedily devouring the apples."

"Now, it happened that the owner of the orchard saw them, and the next day rewarded the good boy who refused to steal his apples by giving him a shilling. He got a prize for his honesty, and what do you suppose the other boy got for his dishonesty?"

He Got the Apples!

"He got the apples!" yelled every member of the class.

Audacity of Woman Spies.
A climax to the audacity of spies is said to have been reached in the case of a woman pretending to be English and giving her name as Miss Booth, who, in connection with another woman calling herself Baroness de Rosen, organized a charitable work at the Gare du Nord, in Paris, which they called "For the Wounded and for the Refugees." The former, suspected of illicit communication with the Germans, passed before a court-martial and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, while the latter, against whom no tangible proof could be produced, was invited to leave French territory within 48 hours.

Lost Art.

They had been sitting around the table at the club all evening as usual talking about the war—always the war. There fell a little silence at last and then Jones spoke. "Is there any person present," said he, "who can tell me what it was we used to talk about before the war?"

British Colonial Taxes.

England's colonies do not pay direct taxes. That principle was established in the American war for independence. Just now the colonies are making voluntary grants and are establishing the principle that they can only be petitioned for free gifts.

Flowers for Summer Table.

It is so easy, in the country, to keep the house charming with fresh flowers—and any number of vases full will cost nothing at all. If you have not a garden of your own—and there seems no reason why every woman should not have a tiny garden at least—if her country domain admits of space to grow them in—the field flowers will answer almost as well. Clover makes an enchanting bouquet, goldenrod is delightful in a brown and yellow living room or in great jars on the porch. The lovely blue gentians, and blue roadside asters are equally charming in slender glass vases. A bit of wire netting fitted into the top of a low fern dish will make it possible to use small flowers to good advantage on the breakfast table. Pansies are lovely used in this way. Nasturtiums or sweet peas will make a bed of glowing color if the stems are thrust through the wire netting or such a receptacle.

CHARLEROI HIGH WINS

in for Eagye and Harrington for Rubenstein, but even with these fresh men Charleroi could not stop them.

For Charleroi Hickey came to the front with a run around right end for 59 yards, placing the ball on the eight yard line. Here Vandergrift held and kicked to Miksch, who ran 55 yards through the entire team for the second score. He failed on the kick, Score 13 to 7.

The last score was the direct result of a 30 yard run by Piersol, a 42 yard run by Hickey and an 18 yard forward pass over the line Stahlman to Carson. Time was called in another minute, leaving the score 19 to 7.

In the absence of Capt. Lowstuter, who remained out of the struggle on account of bad shoulder and in order to prepare for the Monessen game the coming Saturday, Miksch acted as captain and was a big factor in Charleroi's victory. On the offense Hickey with two runs for a total of 92 yards starred, while Piersol carrying the ball scarcely ever failed to gain. On the defense Hepler piled up play after play and Carson took off interference and runner time after time. Stahlman played one of his most dependable games. The entire team worked well and arguments were missing. For Vandergrift Chapman and George played well, but probably their best in the game Saturday was Bortz the captain. Lineup:

Charleroi	High—19	Vandergrift—7
Hickey	LE	Mohney
Hepler	LT	Chapman
Harrington	LG	Snyder
Brown	C	Townsend
Rubenstein	RG	Verty
Dolan	RT	Mitchell
Carson	RE	Brinker
Stahlman	QB	Bortz
Eagye	LH	George
Miksch	RH	Gumbert
Piersol	FB	Kuntz
Substitutions—Paluso for Dolan, Harrington for Rubenstein, Ryland for Harrington, L. Lowstuter for Eagye. Touchdowns—Stahlman, Miksch, Carson. Goals from touch-down—Miksch.
